Follow up: staff guide

Titan Quotes · How to work the Follow up page · November 2026

What the page is for

Follow up (top bar) lists every quote we've sent that is still waiting on the customer. It tells you which ones need you today, why, what the customer last said, and what to do next. The red number on the top bar is how many are due now.

A quote leaves the list when the customer accepts it, or when you mark it Lost or Postpone it.

Reading the page

Part	What it means
Last sent by	Filter at the top: Pourya | Joey | Albert | Everyone. It starts on you. Each name is whoever last sent the quote, so that person is the one talking to the customer.
"with Joey" pill	Beside each customer's name: who the customer is in conversation with. Follow up on your own quotes unless you've agreed to cover someone.
Visited, no quote yet	The amber block at the very top: customers whose in-home or store visit in the last two weeks went ahead, with no measured quote sent since. Write the measured quote opens it. These count in the red number too.
Due now	The blue-edged block at the top. Work these first, top to bottom.
Coming up / Snoozed / Postponed	Not due yet. You can still act on them early.
Visit chip	Under the name: where the lead is. No visit yet Visit booked Nov 12 · in-home Visited Nov 4 · in store No-show Nov 3. It comes from the customer's GHL appointments.
Why it's due	The reason and the date it's due (see the next table).
Age and follow-ups	"day 9 · most close by day 12" and how many follow-ups it has had. Most of our jobs close within about 12 days, so a quote past day 12 needs more attention, not less.
Conversation	Click a row (anywhere but a button) to open that customer's GHL conversation on the right: texts, emails, calls and call summaries.

Why a quote is due

You'll see	What to do
They replied, no answer yet	The customer wrote or called and nobody answered. Answer today. This beats everything else.

Visited: the measured quote is owed	A preliminary whose visit has happened. Get the measured quote out; this is where jobs slip away.
Past its good-until date	Send it again (from the quote page) or close it out.
First / Second / Third follow-up	The normal schedule: 3, 10 and 21 days after the quote went out.
They said: "next week"	The customer named a time, so the date follows what they said instead of the schedule.
Close it out or postpone it	Day 45 with no decision. Call them: then mark it Lost, Postpone it, or Snooze it if it's genuinely still alive. Nothing is ever marked lost on its own.
Postponed to Mar 1, follow up	Back from a postpone. Reach out before the date they gave.

What counts as a follow-up

- Counts on its own: a text, email or chat you send them from GHL, and any call that connects (in or out). The page sees these in GHL and moves the date out.
- Doesn't count: automated workflow texts, internal comments, missed calls, and the quote's own email and text on the day it was sent.
- Not in GHL? If you talked in the store, on site, or from your own phone, press I followed up and add a short note. Otherwise the page thinks nobody followed up.

The brief

Each quote has a short brief, written by Claude from the quote and the GHL conversation (call summaries included):

- Where it stands, in one or two lines.
- What they asked: ✓ means we answered, ? means we haven't yet.
- The next step: call, text, email, book the visit, wait, or close it out, with a reason.
- A draft message. Copy and open GHL copies it and opens the conversation, so you paste, edit and send it there.

> The brief is a suggestion, not a script. Read the conversation before you send. Fix anything that's wrong, and never send a draft that promises a price, a date or a discount nobody agreed to. The brief rewrites itself when something new happens; Rewrite asks for a fresh one now.

The buttons

Button	What it does	Use it when
Conversation	Opens the customer's thread on the right.	Always, before you reach out.
Open in GHL	Opens the conversation in GHL, where you reply.	Sending a text or email.

I followed up	Logs a follow-up GHL can't see, with an optional note.	Store visit, site chat, personal phone.
Snooze 3d / 7d / 14d	Hides it here until then. Nothing changes in GHL. A new message from the customer brings it back early.	"Still deciding", "talking to my partner".
Book the visit	Copies the in-home measure booking link (preliminaries only).	A preliminary that needs measuring.
Postpone...	Pick a date. Moves the GHL opportunity to Postponed with Postponed Until, stops the automated texts, and brings the quote back a month before (or halfway, if it's sooner).	The customer gave a later time: "spring", "after we move".
Lost...	Pick one of GHL's lost reasons. Marks the opportunity and the quote Lost and stops the automated texts.	The customer said no, or went elsewhere.

Postpone and Lost check what they'll do before they do it, and both take an optional note that goes into the GHL conversation and the quote's History.

Rules

1. Answer replies first, then visits. "They replied, no answer yet" is always today's first job; "Visited, no quote yet" is the next. A measured quote should go out within a day or two of the visit.
2. Work your own quotes. Use the Last sent by filter. If you cover someone else's customer, say so in your note.
3. Read the conversation before every follow-up. Click the row and check what was last said.
4. Send from GHL. The page drafts; you edit and send in GHL from your own number or address.
5. Log what GHL can't see. Press I followed up after any store, site or personal-phone conversation.
6. Lost only on the customer's word. They said no, went elsewhere, or stopped answering after the day-45 call. Pick the honest reason; it's how we learn why we lose jobs.
7. Postpone only to a date they gave. If they didn't give one, Snooze instead.
8. Preliminaries: book the visit, then send the measured quote. "No visit yet" means book one. "Visited" on a preliminary means the measured quote is owed. Send it within a day or two.
9. Big jobs get a call. Jobs around $20,000 and up get a phone call, not just a text.
10. Never share internal notes or costs with a customer, even when a call summary mentions them.

A good five minutes

1. Open Follow up. Make sure the filter is on your name.
2. Go down Due now: click the row, read the conversation and the brief.
3. Reach out (copy the draft into GHL, edit, send), or call.
4. Record the outcome: nothing to do if it was in GHL, I followed up if it wasn't, or Snooze, Postpone or Lost.

5. Glance at Coming up for anything you can get ahead of.
